WELCOMING YOU TO KOLEINU 2.0 AND TO 5776 AT TBZ

Susan Kahn and Jonathan Klein, August 2015

We are thrilled that you are now reading the very first edition of "Koleinu 2.0." After many, many years as editor of Koleinu, Enid Shulman (who is also a former Co-President) has stepped down, creating an opportunity to assess Koleinu as part of our overall communications with our community, and see if, after more than 10 years, it might be time for an upgrade. This is the result.

Before we go further, a HEARTY THANK YOU to Enid. We are so grateful that she has done such a wonderful job all these years!

To decide what comes next, we did a survey – how many members read Koleinu, what information are they most interested in, and how Koleinu relates to our other communication tools:

- The website, which is also being reorganized, go check it out (www.tbzbrookline.org),
- Weekly Happenings Newsletter that is emailed to members each week and available in the Sanctuary on Shabbat,
- The Kehilla message board for unofficial communications with our broader community of friends (for instructions on joining, contact the office),
- And finally, occasional letters from the Rabbis or us.

What we learned is that many of you do value Koleinu, you enjoy reading and seeing a broader picture (more than the weekly Happenings) of what is going on at TBZ, and many of you like having something "sitting around" that you can go to for information without always booting up a computer.

The new Koleinu will be cleaner, easier for a new editor put together each time, and with the important content organized in a way to make it more accessible to everyone. It still needs someone who's interested in editing and organizing the content. Interested? Without a new editor, we can't keep this new Koleinu going. Let us know if you have a little bit of time to help by emailing us at copresidents@tbzbrookline.org.

One difference you will notice is that the calendar has been deleted and replaced with a selected list of highlighted events in a format we think will be easier to look over. Check the website for the most complete and up-to-date calendar. Another change is that it will be shorter – there will be one "From the Rabbis" instead of two (Rav Claudia and Reb Moshe will alternate), and the Co-Presidents Column is being deleted. In addition, there will be one other feature article (which you are reading now).

Welcome to TBZ and 5776

We also want to welcome you to 5776 at TBZ, which promises to be an extremely full and rich year. The High Holidays are here, and, as they always are, are a wonderful time both for self-reflection and, equally important, reconnecting with each other as the TBZ community. Our 5776 calendar had been planned with extensive involvement of the rabbis, the Board, and committee chairs, and is already packed with events, classes, and other happenings. We have plans to enhance Erev Shabbat at TBZ, including a new musical Shabbat format and post-services pot-luck dinners — and more.

As we begin 5776, let's welcome each other back to the community, and commit to being part of a welcoming culture at TBZ. We want everyone who steps through our door to feel welcomed, like they belong, and to feel embraced in a way that makes them want to return.

How do we do this? By overcoming our shyness and talking to people we don't know yet at Oneg and Kiddush. By wearing our nametags. By volunteering to be a door greeter, and spend a half hour (or more!) saying Shabbat Shalom as people enter.

As always, we — Sue and Jonathan, speaking now — on behalf of ourselves and the entire Board, are always excited to hear from you (copresidents@tbzbrookline.org) to meet with you and help you individually find your place and feel welcome at TBZ.

Best wishes to all of you for a sweet, joyful, welcoming and happy New Year.

5776. A wish for the year

Thoughts for the coming year about our TBZ community, its past and a vision for the future
from Reb Moshe Waldoks

CHANGE IS WHAT'S HANDLED TO YOU BY A CASHIER, WHAT IS REQUESTED BY A PANHANDLER. WHAT WE CAN NEVER STOP,
WHAT FRIGHTENS US,
WHAT WE HOPE TO SEE IN OTHERS, WHAT WE HOPE TO SEE IN OURSELVES.

We wish for good change. Every moment changes. It is our awareness of this reality that helps focus our collective attention to this process that is so much part of our observances of the New Year. We do this in community.

Our Jewish celebration of the changes demarcated by a new year in our lives is not obliterated by over-drinking and partying to the wee hours of morning as the old year exits. Our celebration is decidedly more sober, and yet more joyous. We look to the New Year as a season of renewal of our senses; of our capacity to see the beauty of creation and the role of the human being in the vastness that surrounds us. For us the magic of the High Holidays is that they truly are the Days of Awe, the Yamim Noraim.

We are surrounded and filled with the Divine Presence in the Universe. We are enriched by the vibrancy in the tension between the Transcendent and the Imminent, what is beyond and within. This tension stimulates our desire to be at one with the One.

We find ourselves digging deeper into ourselves and re-discovering places that we have hidden away or forgotten.

We re-discover joys and pains. We re-discover that we are Jewish human beings striving to carry on an ancient tradition, despite the challenges facing us.

The fact that we continue to exist as Jews in the world is remarkable. Our spirits, particularly around the high holidays, yearn to be reconnected to our tradition, to our culture and our history, and to be part of a community whose aims we support. No Jew lives in isolation from others. From time immemorial we have formed communities of learning and loving; of care and compassion. Despite the challenges of annihilation we have resisted extinction and strived for distinction.

We have to face the real challenges to spiritual community that loom large before us. Jewish-Americans are challenged by a lack of knowledge and decidedly less devotion to Jewish continuity that was manifest in past generations. The generation of Jews marked by the horrors of the Shoah and the almost miraculous re-creation of an independent Jewish State were determined to provide a Jewish future for many of us. Those who are entering adulthood, two or three generations away from the visceral events of Holocaust and Jewish self-determination, may not share the zeal of their parents and grandparents. Unfortunately young Jewish adults are facing a wave of anti-Semitism that was impolite, certainly, in the post-War period.

Change is inevitable. We at TBZ seek a path that connects us to our past and provides a vision of the future. The current incarnation of TBZ was founded on the shoulders of Jews who built an institution to galvanize the Washington Square community. By 1998 Temple Beth Zion was moribund, yet we became a successful a successful vehicle for change. This success will be ensured by our ongoing commitment to transformation in the future. Our success was based on a commitment to spiritual and intellectual growth, without doctrinal requirements. Our continued success will be grounded in making certain that TBZ remains a home to spiritual seekers, an unpretentious warm home for all, no matter their background and orientations. For all those seeking for a deeper connection to that sacred Oneness that is our God TBZ is the "place to find yourself". Our confidence in the future lies in our dual commitments to tradition and change.

This process can't continue without you. What are the changes that you want to be a part of in this coming year? What would you suggest to help your growing engagement in this process? How do we increase involvement in TBZ year round? What direction should we take to further our Jewish literacy? What help do you need in maintaining a spiritual path?

We have been blessed by a strong and growing contemplative community led by dedicated teachers. For many, this is an accessible path to growing participation during the year. This fall, Anne and I will be introducing explorations in Wise Aging: preparing our seasoned members to become true elders of our community in the decades to come. Our varied classes offer a marvelous opportunity to grow intellectually and spiritually. Our Beit Rabban school program is dynamic and expanding. Our Hesed committee reaches out with sensitivity and care to those who need help during a tough time, supporting our community.

Our Tikkun Olam work brings us into association with many other religious and social communities to press for changes in social policies.

There is so much more growth and excitement at TBZ than can be mentioned here. How can we guide the changes so that more of us are involved in our successes? How can all of us ensure the growth of new membership and our expanding programs? How can we change from bystanders to participants in shaping the future at TBZ?

We can't do it without your help, your suggestions, your wisdom and your devotion to the "un-Orthodox" Jewish approach that lies behind our creativity and openness to change.

Over the next few years we hope to improve our physical space, holding sacred to our values without disturbing those areas we hold sacred. These spatial enhancements will provide the community with additional spaces for study and gatherings. These good changes will depend on all of us coming together in community to maintain and improve our physical plant.

Our spirituality is closely connected to our physicality. Our siddur tells us that our physical health is the prerequisite for the flourishing of our souls.

Our teacher Rabbi Zalman Schachter-Shalomi, of blessed memory, said it this way: the only way to get it together is together.

Anne and my daughters join me in wishing you and yours a sweet, healthy and successful year 5776.

May we all be written and sealed in the Book of Life.
